About the New York Center for Jungian Studies

The New York Center for Jungian Studies, founded in 1991 by Aryeh Maidenbaum and Diana Rubin, offers seminars, workshops, and study tours in extraordinary settings. Led by outstanding and internationally recognized analysts and authors, our programs offer a rare opportunity for participants to meet and exchange ideas with others who come from diverse backgrounds, yet who all have a common interest in the psychology and ideas of Carl Jung.

New York Center for Jungian Studies programs are open to individuals of all fields as well as mental health professionals; participants hail from all over the US, and abroad. A combination of inspired content, magical settings, superb accommodations, and gourmet meals provides an unforgettable experience and a unique and meaningful learning vacation.

Welcome

Jung in Ireland celebrates its 20th anniversary in 2020 — two decades of captivating participants from around the world in an exploration of C.G. Jung's work and related themes. Rich in history, alive with impeccable natural beauty, and steeped in mythology, Ireland provides a unique and inspiring setting. The programs, open to individuals from all fields, as well as mental health professionals, provide an extraordinary opportunity to meet and exchange ideas with participants from diverse backgrounds, interact with the dynamic monks of Glenstal Abbey, and engage with internationally known Jungian analysts and authors. We invite you to join us for one or both of these programs and experience the magical and alchemical setting of Ireland!

THE USES OF ENCHANTMENT: Charisma and Power

A Program with the Monks of Glenstal Abbey
March 23–29, 2020
County Limerick, Ireland

Charisma without character is postponed calamity.
—Peter Ajsafe

As our world grows more stressful and confusing, the need for clarity and purpose in our lives grows more intensely. We may not always be aware of this intensifying dynamic within us, but we nonetheless find ourselves, consciously or unconsciously, drawn to powerful, charismatic figures — parents, teachers, mentors, clergy, and therapists — who signal that they have the answers we seek.

During the course of our week together, in dialogue and discussion with thoughtful and outstanding Jungian analysts and authors, as well as the erudite and psychologically sophisticated monks of Glenstal Abbey, we will explore the archetypal underpinnings of charisma and the powerful influence that many of these figures have over us, individually and in our culture.

Program

The measure of a man is what he does with power. —Plato

Charisma is, indeed, a powerful force in our lives. Its influence evolves on both conscious and unconscious levels, and can significantly shape who we are, who we strive to be, and who we have become.

Charismatic leaders have always existed historically — from Cleopatra to Napoleon to FDR, among others. Charisma and the power it wields still flourish in the world today. Thanks to the Internet and sophisticated marketing, people are influenced by charismatic characters and forces in ways never dreamed possible. They can be influential pop-culture celebrities or entertainers. They can be anger-driven, narcissistic politicians. Or they can even be someone we know well—a parent, teacher, therapist, mentor, or clergy.

What they each have in common is the powerful influence they can exert. That influence can be positive and nurturing. Or it can blindly and destructively control our lives. If the lure is strong enough, we long to be just like them, or we want to reflect feelings, thoughts, and actions that would please them.

This person has authority, charm, and/or passion and can influence us by telling us who we ought to be and what should be most important to us. Their passion becomes our passion.

During the course of our seminar, we will explore how to identify charismatic figures in our lives, past and present. These are people who exploit their influence and power in a detrimental and manipulative manner as well as those who make use of their authority and influence in order to help us thrive, succeed, and flourish.

Welcome Counties Clare & Limerick

Location

The charming town of Ennis in County Clare, lies on the banks of the River Fergus — a short drive from some of Ireland’s most notable sites including the Bunratty Castle, the Burren, the Cliffs of Moher, and the west coast of Ireland. Founded in the thirteenth century, medieval Ennis developed into a thriving market town that continues to this day. Known for its music and poetry festivals, and especially for traditional Irish music, Ennis treasures its history and culture and is proud to share its past and present with visitors.

Accommodations

The Old Ground Hotel in Ennis, a short drive from Shannon Airport, is a beautifully restored, ivy-clad manor house with newly refurbished guest rooms that are both stylish and spacious. The hotel offers two restaurants and the picturesque “Poet’s Corner Bar.” Known for its warm Irish hospitality and gourmet meals using local produce, it is an ideal base for our program. A five-minute walk takes you to the heart of the village where you will find the town square, the thirteenth-century Ennis Friary, and a multitude of shops, restaurants, and bookstores. The pubs in Ennis feature traditional Irish music nightly. A perfect town to stroll — day or evening.

Program Setting

Glenstal Abbey in County Limerick, home to a community of monks (many renowned scholars among them), is a Benedictine monastery on the southwest coast of Ireland. It sits on over 300 acres, with streams, lakes, woodland paths, and an enchanting walled garden. Surrounding a castle built in the romantic Norman style, the Abbey houses a world-famous collection of Russian icons and one of the most important private libraries in Ireland, with a substantial archive of antiquarian books (many dating back to the fifteenth century) on Irish history, Irish literature, biography, and art.

Faculty

Yoram Bilu, PhD, is professor emeritus of anthropology and psychology at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. His research interests include the anthropology of religion, focusing on saint worship, messianism, and religious healing. Dr. Bilu received the Israel Prize (the most prestigious award in Israel) in sociology and anthropology and was elected to the Israeli Academy of Sciences and Humanities in 2005. His publications include Without Bounds: The Life and Death of Rabbi Ya'aqov Wazana; The Saints' Impresarios: Dreamers, Healers, and Holy Men in Israel's Urban Periphery; and With Us More Than Ever: Making the Absent Rebbe Present in Messianic Chabad (forthcoming from Stanford University Press).

Marlene Frantz, MA, MFT, is a Jungian analyst, a certified group psychotherapist and certified equine therapist in private practice in Santa Monica and Topanga, California. She has contributed articles and been a featured artist in Psychological Perspectives; is a member of the teaching faculty of the Jung Institute of Los Angeles; and has lectured on creativity, grief, facing mortality, and equine therapy. In addition, she leads groups and workshops in Los Angeles on the creative process, dreams, and rebuilding one's life after loss.

Mark Patrick Hederman, former abbot of Glenstal Abbey, has been a monk of Glenstal Abbey for more than 40 years. Founding editor of The Crane Bag Journal of Irish Studies, he spent the first years of the new century wandering in search of the Holy Spirit, allowing inspiration and coincidence to lead him. Among his many publications are Walkabout: Life as Holy Spirit; Kissing the Dark: Connecting with the Unconscious; Dancing with Dinosaurs; and, most recently, The Opal and the Pearl.

John Hill, MA, earned a diploma in analytical psychology from the Jung Institute of Zurich, where he served for many years as training analyst. He has also earned degrees in philosophy from the University of Dublin and from Catholic University in Washington, DC. He has a private practice in Zurich and is a training analyst at ISAP-Zurich. Born and raised in Ireland and a graduate of the Glenstal Abbey School, he has published, among other works, on the themes of Celtic myth, dreams, and Christian mysticism, and has written a highly acclaimed book, At Home in the World: Sounds and Symmetries of Belonging.

Anthony Keane, OSB, joined the Glenstal Abbey in 1965 to teach in the Abbey School. After completing studies in archaeology and Irish in Dublin and theology in Rome, he embarked on a yearlong pilgrimage in India. Upon returning home, he served as the monastery's forester, tending Glenstal's forest, situated on several hundred acres and containing some of the oldest and most magnificent trees in Ireland.

Nóirín Ní Riain, PhD, an acclaimed spiritual singer, has introduced the Dalai Lama at official occasions in Ireland and elsewhere. A theologian, musicologist, and recording artist who was awarded the first doctorate in theology from the University of Limerick, she has written several books, including Listen with the Ear of the Heart: An Autobiography and Theosony: Towards a Theology of Listening. Dr. Ní Riain was ordained as a minister in 2017 with One Spirit Interfaith Seminary in London.

Colmán Ó Clabaigh is a monk of Glenstal Abbey and a medievalist specializing in the history of Irish monasticism. He is the author of many books and articles, including his monograph The Friars in Ireland, 1224–1540, which was awarded the 2013 Irish Historical Research Prize from the National University of Ireland. Brother Colmán's current research focuses on the impact of religion on the human life cycle in medieval Ireland.

Sylvia Brinton Perera, MA, an internationally known Jungian analyst, lives, practices, and teaches in New York and Vermont. On the faculty and for many years a board member of the Jung Institute of New York, she lectures and leads workshops throughout the U.S. and abroad. Her many publications include Descent to the Goddess: A Way of Initiation for Women; The Scapegoat Complex: Toward a Mythology of Shadow and Guilt; Dreams, A Portal to the Source; Celtic Queen Maeve and Addiction: An Archetypal Perspective; and The Irish Bull God: Image of Multiform and Integral Masculinity.

Father Simon Sleeman, MA, earned a BA in psychology and philosophy at University College, Dublin, and MAs in theology and organizational development. Born in Berlin,

Father Simon was educated at the Glenstal Abbey School and ordained in 1991. He was the headmaster of Glenstal's secondary school from 1991 to 1998 and served as the Abbey's bursar for many years as well. He notes that "providential encounters with psychotherapy, poetry, and alternative philosophies have helped me to forge another understanding of life."

AWAKENING THE GENIE WITHIN: Our Undiscovered Self A Seminar

March 30–April 6, 2020

Killarney, Ireland

Everything living dreams of Individuation, for everything strives towards its own wholeness” —C.G. Jung

There is an energy source within us capable of removing obstacles to our individual growth as well as opening new, inspiring paths in our lives. We can tap into that source—the Genie Within, who can help us discover an authentic dimension of who we are inwardly and enable us to become that individual. The Undiscovered Self, a core principle of C.G. Jung’s work, is where the Genie resides, a transcendent and unrealized aspect of our psyche.

Finding this Undiscovered Self will reveal the unconscious parts of our psyche that we have lost touch with — a neglected potential waiting to be tapped. The goal of this seminar is to help us get in touch with the powerful forces within. These forces will enhance our personal as well as professional lives.

Program

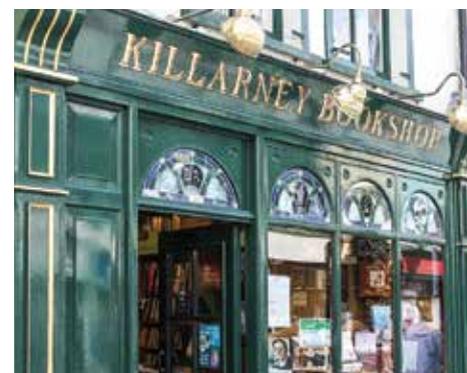

To be what we are, and to become what we are capable of being, is the only end in life. —Robert Louis Stevenson

What and who is this genie within that helps us discover the true Self? The Genie is the alchemist within that turns lead into gold and helps us discover the parts of ourselves — our souls — that have always been there, hidden, neglected, or undeveloped.

We might call this Genie a transcendent part of the psyche that can overcome complexes and conflicts to create a new, individuated entity that holds our opposites. When we can find the courage to trust the inner Self, our unconscious, to listen to our dreams and pay attention to our daydreams, the Genie will emerge. When we knock on those doors, the Genie answers. We begin to trust that long-neglected voice to carve out a new, emerging sense of Self. Our dreams, complexes, fears, relationships, and aspirations are among the many paths to explore as we set out on this road.

How can we rid ourselves of the constant voices around us and listen to our true, authentic voice? How can we summon the Genie? How do we carefully and constructively ignite the energy needed to evolve untapped potential so that we can live more rewarding, fulfilling lives?

“Awakening the Genie Within” will explore this compelling, life-changing theme through presentations, group discussions, and workshops. Participants will gain insights into how to begin and sustain the Self-discovery path. While it is a lifelong mission to nurture a relationship with the hidden Self, that mission begins with an understanding of the process.

Opposite: Killarney National Park — walking distance from the hotel — can be toured by foot, bicycle, horse-drawn carriage, and even by boat. The park includes the 15th-century Ross Castle ruins and the Victorian-period Muckross house and gardens; above, clockwise: the village of Killarney is full of shops; Killarney pubs feature local musicians; the Killarney Park Hotel; Ross Castle.

Welcome to Killarney, County Kerry

Location

A favorite destination of Sir Walter Scott and Queen Victoria, Killarney is surrounded by a beautiful, unspoiled verdant landscape of lakes, forests, and mountains, including Killarney National Park—with 25,000 acres of forest and trails. Additionally, a short distance from this picturesque town is the famed Muckross House and the Ross Castle. Our schedule will allow ample time to explore Killarney’s many shops and to also enjoy its vibrant pub scene where one can enjoy traditional Irish music.

Accommodations & Seminar Site

The Killarney Park is a deluxe, family-owned, five-star hotel. With each spacious room overlooking the hotel gardens, the historic town of Killarney, or the mountains beyond, it is superbly located at the edge of town and within easy walking distance to both the town center and Killarney National Park. Amenities at the Killarney Park Hotel include outstanding cuisine, complimentary Internet access, an indoor swimming pool, and a luxurious spa. It is considered one of the finest hotels in County Kerry.

Meals

Meals will be wonderful times to get to know one another and interact with presenters. Every day will begin with a hearty, full Irish breakfast, complemented by a wide selection of fresh fruit, local Irish cheeses, and fresh breads. Those who have been with us before know what a treat is in store with gourmet meals and outstanding Irish service at the Killarney Park Hotel.

Our breaks will feature coffee, traditional Irish and herbal teas, and freshly baked scones. On Tuesday and Wednesday, we will lunch together at the elegant Killarney Park Hotel, where we will also enjoy festive gourmet opening and closing dinners. For meals on your own, Killarney has a multitude of charming restaurants, pubs, and cafés.

Faculty

Ashok Bedi, MD, Jungian psychoanalyst and board-certified psychiatrist, is a Distinguished Life Fellow of the American Psychiatric Association and clinical professor in psychiatry at the Medical College of Wisconsin in Milwaukee. A training analyst and former president of the Jung Institute of Chicago, Dr. Bedi is also in private practice in Milwaukee. Additionally, he coleads annual study groups to India with his wife, Usha. His publications include Awaken the Slumbering Goddess; Retire Your Family Karma; Path to the Soul; The Spiritual Paradox of Addiction; and Crossing the Healing Zone.

Michael Gibbons, one of Ireland's most respected archaeologists, is acclaimed for his ongoing fieldwork in Connemara. A popular presenter, he has lectured worldwide at numerous venues, including Oxford, Cambridge, the National Geographic Society, and the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, DC. Author of Connemara: Visions of Iar Chonnacht, and numerous articles, he is a member of the Institute of Archaeologists of Ireland, the Croagh Patrick archaeological research team, and the Heritage Council of Ireland.

Veronica Goodchild, PhD, is Professor Emerita at Pacifica Graduate Institute, where she was a core faculty member for over sixteen years. Among the courses she taught were Jungian Psychology, Alchemy, and Depth Psychology and the Sacred. An affiliate member of the Inter-Regional Society of Jungian Analysts, Dr. Goodchild has trained at the Jung-Von Franz Center for Depth Psychology and has been a practicing Jungian psychotherapist for more than thirty-five years. Her publications include Eros and Chaos: The Sacred Mysteries; Dark Shadows of Love; and Songlines of the Soul: Pathways to a New Vision for a New Century.

Erik Goodwyn, MD, holds bachelor's degrees in physics and mathematics, a master's in anatomy and neurobiology, and a medical degree from the University of Cincinnati.

Currently director of psychotherapy training at the University of Louisville, Department of Psychiatry, Dr. Goodwyn is the author of The Neurobiology of the Gods, Healing Symbols in Psychotherapy, and Understanding Dreams and Other Spontaneous Images. An officer in the U.S. Air Force for seven years, he has researched and written about the dreams of soldiers in combat zones and authored articles combining archetypal theory with cognitive anthropology and evolutionary psychology.

Margaret Klenck, MDiv, LP, is a Jungian analyst in private practice in New York City. A graduate of Union Theological Seminary, she is president of the Jungian Psychoanalytic Association in New York, where she teaches and supervises trainees. Ms. Klenck has lectured and taught nationally and internationally. Her most recent publications, in which she is a featured interviewee, are Visible Mind: Movies, Modernity, and the Unconscious, by Christopher Hauk and There's a Mystery There: The Primal Vision of Maurice Sendak by Jonathan Cott. Before becoming an analyst, Ms. Klenck had a 20-year acting career, appearing on stage, television, and film.

Aryeh Maidenbaum, PhD, Jungian analyst, is co-Director of the New York Center for Jungian Studies; editor and contributor to the book Jung and the Shadow of Anti- Semitism; and coeditor, with Stephen Martin, of Lingering Shadows: Jungians, Freudians and Anti-Semitism. Among his publications are "The Search for Spirit in Jungian Psychology," "Sounds of Silence," and "Psychological Type, Job Change and Personal Growth." Dr. Maidenbaum was formerly on the faculty of NYU, where he taught courses on Jungian psychology. He lectures internationally and organizes educational Jewish heritage travel programs throughout the world.

Lyn Mather, MA, is an artist and a Jungian-oriented art therapist. Her practice emphasizes active imagination, image and dream interpretation, and eco-arts. She regularly facilitates presentations and workshops themed on the imaginal, mythopoetic, and the symbolic. With her husband Mathew, she pioneered a certificate course combining Jungian psychology with art therapy. A current project of theirs, "Art and Psyche Ireland," is a networking platform that focuses on the role of the emergent unconscious, the creative imagination, and process work.

Mathew Mather, PhD, specializes in Jung and alchemy. He is a graduate of the University of Essex, a lecturer at Limerick School of Art and Design, and course director of the Certificate in Jungian Psychology with Art Therapy. Dr. Mather regularly presents at international conferences, is a guest lecturer at ISAP-Zurich, and is interested in dream interpretation, synchronicity, art, alchemy, and astrology. He is the author of The Alchemical Mercurius: Esoteric Symbol of Jung's Life and Works.

Visit the CUBA Less Traveled

Myth, Music & Mysticism — A Study Tour
January 5–11, 2020

We are pleased to announce that once again we are able to offer a special travel program to Cuba. Led by Jungian analyst Monika Wikman and musicologist Ev Mann, we will be traveling to Cuba under the auspices of an approved U.S. Treasury Department license. The program will include presentations, meetings with local musicians and artists and discussion, demonstrations, and performances of Cuban music. Throughout our journey, we will familiarize ourselves with the role that archetypes and myths play in Cuba's psychology and Afro-Cuban religions while experiencing the wonderfully diverse music, spirit, and culture of this exotic island.

We invite you to join us on this extraordinary program—limited to 26 participants. CE credits have been applied for. (Please note: Our last trip to Cuba was filled with a long waiting list and we had to turn away many interested people. Please register soon to ensure your participation.)

Program Cost: $3,850

A deposit of $750 per person is due upon registration. Single supplement ($700); Cuban visa ($80) and gratuities ($150) additional.

Includes:

- Flights from Miami to Santiago and Holguín to Miami
- Six nights' accommodations at deluxe hotels (Melia Santiago and Paradisus)
- Full Cuban breakfast daily; three lunches and three dinners
- All lectures, presentations, guided tours, and museum and site entrance fees
- All transportation via air-conditioned coaches

For more information, including a daily schedule and/or help with your travel plans, please contact the New York Center for Jungian Studies at 845-256-0191, or e-mail Sally Raymond at Sally@nyjungcenter.org

You may use the form on the next page to register, too.

Explore Exotic SEVILLE SPAIN

Myth, Music & Mysticism — A Study Tour
November 5–12, 2020

Exotic Seville — heart of Andalucía and seat of power and glory in medieval Spain—is the destination of our 2020 annual study tour abroad. The birthplace of flamenco (considered the “Soul of Andalucía”), it is renowned for its music, gypsy culture, Moorish influence, and mystical heritage. Its famous Royal tobacco factory (now part of the University of Seville) was the hub of Spanish commerce in the eighteenth century and the setting for the legendary Carmen of literature and opera.

During the course of this unique study tour, we will explore the cultural and historic sites in Seville and learn about the Jewish, Christian, and Islamic mystical traditions. Noted scholars and Jungian analysts will help us explore the archetypal link that these three great Western religious traditions have in common. Added features will include touring such sites as the Museo de Bellas Artes; Seville Cathedral and La Giralda (originally a mosque and now the third-largest cathedral in the world); the Alcazar; and the Ceramic Museum in Triana.

Some highlights of our week will be a fiery and captivating evening of flamenco dance and music and an excursion to Cordoba, renowned for its tenth-century achievements in art, architecture, philosophy, medicine, poetry, and science.

Here, where Moors, Christians, and Jews once lived together in harmony, and Islamic and Jewish mysticism enriched each other, we will visit the awe-inspiring Mezquita, with its vibrant, striped arches, and walk through the heart of La Judería (old Jewish quarter and birthplace of Maimonides)

Led by Aryeh Maidenbaum and Diana Rubin, our faculty will include noted Jungian analysts Sylvia Perera and Monika Wikman, as well as scholar Earl Collins.
